“ It seems that sometimes, very significant people may be in our lives for only a short period of time. My name is Rick Moyer originally from Warren, Pa. Charlie was deeply important to me as a young boy, as he was a huge influence in my appreciation of the out of doors (especially fishing). He had given me a fishing rod then, and it remains so important to me that I still use it today. My daughter, who I have been blessed to pass on the same love of nature and especially fishing, has been told of Charlie on more than one occasion I'm sure. We shared a 'happy' tear today in our connection to someone she has never met but knows his influence in my life. Now, the best story I can relate and I hope it brings a smile... I had the privilege to take Olivia on her first trout fishing trip this past spring in the mountains of North Carolina. She caught her first ever trout on the very rod Charlie gave me.
